A curved swing trainer to help you feel the correct swing.

Lynx Co. Ltd (Shinichiro Kimura CEO). Launching the utility model registered Fureloop swing trainer with a curved shaft similar to the shape of a loop. Available in five colors, Blue, Green, Yellow, Orange and Red. Head of a popular golf academy, Yoshinori Kobayashi through his vision has developed a revolutionary swing trainer to help you ingrain the feel for the correct golf swing.

How to use

Swing the Fureloop just like you would any normal club.

If you feel the grip twist in your hands or the club feels heavy, it is proof that you are not swinging correctly.

If you can swing the Fureloop like a normal club without feeling any twisting or discomfort then you are swinging properly.

Practice with the Fureloop until the swing becomes ingrained in your body.

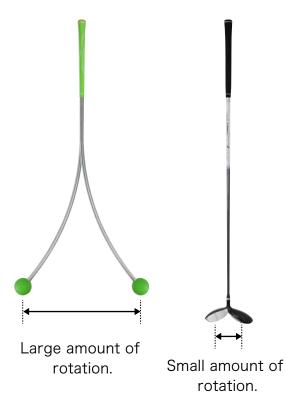

Features

You will feel it once you swing it. First, don't think about anything but to just swing it. You will feel twisting or discomfort in your hands if you make an incorrect swing.

You will also feel discomfort in your hands if your swing direction is off plane.

A normal club only has a small amount of rotation when swung so even if you are off plane you can still force the swing through. The Fureloop rotates a lot more than a normal club, its high moment of inertia causes a lot of force and twisting when not swung correctly giving you a lot of feedback.

example1

A golfer that plays a cut/slice will feel the club flatten out. \rightarrow Difficult to follow though When you practice with the Fureloop you will feel your elbows properly folding in the follow though.

As a result your cut/slice will be fixed.

example2

For golfers that swing more with the hands and arms, the amount of rotational force the Fureloop causes will not allow them to repeatedly swing the club for a long period of time.

When you practice with the Fureloop you learn how the wrists, arms and shoulders aid the movement of the club in the transition and your body and arms become more synchronized.

As a result you become less reliant on just your hands and arms.

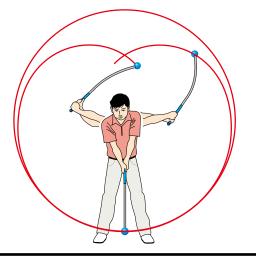

An excellent swing trainer for a variety of swings and habits.

●Practice tips●

Rather than griping tightly try to relax and swing in a large circle from back swing to follow through and repeat many times.

You will begin to feel a natural on plane swing.

Features

If you swing with light grip pressure you can really feel the difference. Helping you to build a repeating golf swing.

●Target golfer : All●
